Alfred and Charles Steckler, who appeared for the prisoner, claimed that the facts testified to by the policeman owere untrue, and placed the prisoner on the stand. He denied that he made the tonfeession as testified to by the officer. They also called a number of witnesses who testified to the previous good character of the prisoner, and the jury after an absence of three hours returned a verdict of not guilty.

Judge Cowing in discharging the prisoner told him that he had had a very lucky escape.

Must Prove His Character.

Philip Race, an aged deckhand, arrested yester-day by Secret Service agents on the canal-boat, Katie Roach, in the calain of which several counterfeit Columbian half dellars were found, was examined to-day by United States Commissioner Shields. Bace denied knowing anything about the coins, but admitted that he knew that Charles Bettik arrested also by the Secret Service, had served several terms for counterfeiting. He was given until next Baturday to produce witnesses as to his character.

in the basement of 231 Broadway, spilled some grease on the range at 10.15 o'clock to-day. The grease caught fire, and flaring up the chimney set the soot ablaze. The heavy cloud of smoke sweeping through City Hall Park caused an alarm to be sent in, A large number of engines and hook and lauder companies came dashing up, but haif a dozen buckets of water poured down the chimney quickly disposed of the flames. Adjoining tenants say that this is the fifth time this chimney has caught fire in the past seven years, and that they have complained frequently of the unsafe condition of the chimney.
